Andrew Cuomo was sworn in as New York State's newest governor in a private ceremony Friday evening. It was held at the Executive Mansion in Albany, his office announced.

"I am honored and humbled to accept this tremendous responsibility," Cuomo said in a media announcement.

The inauguration is notable for northern Westchester, where Cuomo lives. He is a New Castle resident - in a part of town that has a Mount Kisco postal address - and lives with girlfriend and Food Network personality Sandra Lee.

Locally, Mount Kisco's Via Vanti is celebrating the occasion by putting out a new soup in his name, Lago di Cuomo. The dish is described as "puree of warming winter greens served with a crostini topped with goat cheese, chopped tomato and fresh basil," according to a press release from the restaurant, which was republished by The Journal News. The soup will be a seasonal option, and $1 for every sale of the soup will go to the Millwood-based Food Bank of Westchester, according to LoHud.

Editor's Note: Sandra Lee's name was misspelled. Patch regrets the error.
